NAKO ANYONE?

The North American Kendama

Open is today at 11:00 a.m. in North Main Hall A. Watch or join the competition as NAKO

organizer and Kendama shodan

Matt Hall conducts this event for the first time at an IJA festival.

That simple little Japanese wooden toy is capable of amazing things in the hands of the true kendama sensei, so be there to watch, learn and be amazed—or to compete!

Prizes will be awarded.

WANNA BE IN PICTURES?

We're looking for a few people to juggle for the local TV morning show on Thursday. We have five three-minute spots to fill starting at 6:15 a.m. and continuing every half hour until 8:45 a.m.

If you don't mind getting up early,
please talk to festival director Mike
Sullivan; he'll even offer a free
Starbucks coffee to all who help!

INDIVIDUAL PROPS COMPETITION

The Individual Prop Competition is today, 4-6 p.m. in North Main Hall
A, as shown in the festival program. Other workshop times may have changed to avoid a conflict, so please double-check your Wednesday and Thursday workshop times and as always, the latest updates on everything workshop-related are at the workshops area of the IJA table.

PICK YOU UP

The Atlanta Jugglers Association
invites you to drop by their table
any time you need a pick-me-up.
They're serving yerba mate, a traditional South American (and Atlanta-juggler) tea-like herbal stimulant. Enjoy!

SEE CLUB RENEGADE

Don't miss the first Renegade of the week, starting tonight after the Youth Showcase & Juniors Championships. The anything-goes show kicks off around 11:30, upstairs in the Millennium Center Theater (corner of 5th & Trade Streets). Seating is first-come, first-served, and there's a full bar open during the show to ward off any thirst you may develop.

BE CLUB RENEGADE

Sign up to perform Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, or Saturday night. In addition to the usual unusualness, Friday is Games & Asians Night, and Saturday's show will include a tobacco manipulation contest celebrating local heritage.

The performer sign-up sheet is at the Renegade vendor's table, where you can also request additional information.

CHRISTIAN JUGGLERS

Alternatively (?) John Chase will host two meetings of the Christian Jugglers Association:

1. Wednesday, 11 a.m., Room G
2. Thursday, 3 p.m. Room C

WHAT'S WRONG?

The Board welcomes your input. Submit your ideas on how to improve the IJA to the suggestion box at the front desk. Or you can always email board@juggle.org.
